

EXTENSIONS

Extra Time

Sometimes life happens and we all have some unforeseen circumstances come up one time or another where we just simply need some extra time.

Filing an extension allows that extra time!

File an extension through us, They're Free! *

Visit our Helpful Links tab for EXTENSION FORM\(s\) that apply to you.

Extension Filing deadline dates:

September 15th for Businesses; October 17th for Personal Returns.

(Original Filing deadline dates: March 15th for Businesses; April 18th for Personal returns)

To ensure we are able to file your Business extension on time, we MUST receive your Business Extension Form no later than March 5th *

To ensure we are able to file your Personal extension on time, we MUST receive your Personal Extension Form no later than April 5th *

* We do not process Extensions without Authorization Extension Form(s).

* Extension forms provided after March 15th for Businesses and after April 18th for Personal, will not be processed.

* Note: Extensions will only be filed for clients filing current year tax returns with us.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO NOTE THAT IF YOU EXPECT TO OWE, EXTENSIONS DO NOT ALLOW YOU EXTRA TIME TO PAY.

To determine if you may owe, you MUST submit a Workbook to us no later than March 5th for Businesses; April 5th for Personal, so that Don can determine and have ample time to provide you with the necessary voucher(s).

If we've provided you with an extension that allows you to file your Personal and/or Business return on September 15th and/or October 17th and you do not pay what is owed by March 15th and/or April 18th, you may also have to pay penalties and interest on taxes due.

Most people file an extension when they have the inability to pay. Instead of filing an extension for this reason, the IRS offers some payment alternatives. You can request a short extension to pay, of 60 to 120 days – you will still pay penalties and interest but at a lower rate. The IRS also offers installment agreements which allows you to pay a set amount each month until the tax due is fully paid. « For either of these options, you will need to contact the IRS directly to discuss and come to an agreement (800-829-1040 or CLICK HERE for the IRS' online 'Short-Term Payment Plans' portal). Please note, our office cannot make any negotiations on your behalf.
